Description

Icons in table_actions toolbar are not aligned (e.g. "Add column" and "Sort ascending") and a bit disordered (it seems that there's not a logic in their placement). I think they should be reorganized better and icons could be improved.

History

- Tracker changed from gvSIG bugs to gvSIG feature requests

In this case we have (table in edition mode):

...Add column / Rename column / Remove Column / Column Manager / Sort Ascending...

I think is a logic placement.

Ok Alvaro, here's the whole content of the toolbar on my pc:

- Print table (aka the first thing one does with a table);
- Filter table;
- Create link(?) (inactive, no tooltip);
- unknown (inactive, no tooltip);
- Remove row;
- Add column;
- Rename column;
- Remove column;
- Column manager (ex Field or Table manager);
- Sort ascending;
- Sort descending;
- Find and select duplicates;
- Statistics.

I know it's a subjective matter, but probably something better can be done.

The Table menu needs a bit of revision too and obviously should be synchronized with toolbar. For instance, "Remove join" comes before "Create join" and then I should add the "Table properties", "Rename column", "Delete column", etc. My two cents.
