Hi Daniel,

I've just verified in build 2431 and 2432 (win-x86_64), but the "jCRS EPSG: version 8.8" package is still not available in the Testing gvSIG repository.

Hello Antonio,

I have tested again in 2432 win-x86_64 and it appears on the addon manager using this repository:

Testing gvSIG repository - <http://downloads.gvsig.org/download/gvsig-desktop-testing/>

I have added a screen capture from the addon manager showing the package to verify if this is where it must appear.

Hi Daniel,

instead I attach a screenshot relative to your same conditions, but after a fresh install (removing the gvSIG home folder), showing clearly that the "jCRS EPSG: version 8.8" package is still not available in the Testing gvSIG repository.

Note that the "jCRS EPSG: version 8.8" package is available in your screenshot because it's loaded from the jCRS extension folder, but not from the repository.

More in detail: gvSIG-desktop-2.1.0-EPSG_v8_8-1.0.0-1-testing-all-all-j1_5.gvspki is not available in <http://downloads.gvsig.org/download/gvsig-desktop-testing/dists/2.3.0/packages.gvspki>

Hello Antonio,

Thanks again for your help. Now, I think, everything is OK. It appears in a fresh version of gvSIG and appears in <http://downloads.gvsig.org/download/gvsig-desktop-testing/dists/2.3.0/packages.gvspki>.

Could you check everything is correct?

#15 - 06/27/2016 03:24 PM - Antonio Falciano

Hi Daniel,

the "jCRS EPSG: version 8.8" package is available now, thanks! The only strangeness I can see is that its version is 1.0.0-2 (instead of 1.0.0-1, like the previous ones), so two minor versions of the same jCRS EPSG package are shown in the Addons Manager after restarting gvSIG. Is there some particular reason? Is it possible to downgrade the minor version of the package in order to show only one?

#16 - 06/28/2016 08:27 AM - Daniel Martinez

Hello Antonio,

The first version I generated had an error (there was an space between the file name and the extension), so I had to generate a new version to correct this. I think there is no way to downgrade a package, although maybe Joaquin can do it manually.

Thank you Daniel, but it would be perfect to have only the 1.0.0-1 version of "jCRS EPSG: version 8.8" (and fix also #4028). It looks quite messed up than it would. :(
