Description
Al cargar capas de SpatialLite (he probado con distintas capas, cargando una, o hasta cinco a la vez) de repente da un error y deja de poder acceder a la BBDD.
En el log aparece un error algo como:

En principio parece que no se ciernen las conexiones con la BBDD pero si que se esta haciendo un close

```

DEBUG 47511 AWT-EventQueue-0 org.gvsig spatialite dal SpatialLiteHelper - getConnection: connection = 932908367
DEBUG 47511 AWT-EventQueue-0 org.gvsig fmap dal store jdbc2 spi operations AbstractConnectionOperation - Executing operation

DEBUG 47512 AWT-EventQueue-0 org.gvsig fmap dal store jdbc2 JDBCUtils - execute query SQL: SELECT ST_AsBinary(Extent("geometry")) FROM "country"
DEBUG 47513 AWT-EventQueue-0 org.gvsig spatialite dal SpatialLiteHelper - closeConnection: connection = 932908367

el metodo closeConnection tiene el codigo:

public void closeConnection(Connection connection) {
    logger.debug("closeConnection: connection = "+connection.hashCode());
    try { connection.close();
    }
}

```

```
        } catch (SQLException ex) {
            logger.warn("Can't close connection.",ex);
        }
    }
```

Por lo que parece que si que se cierran las conexiones.

Ahora mismo no se por donde cogerlo. Habrá que seguir investigando.

- Target version changed from 2.4.0-2850-final (rev. org.gvsig.desktop-2.0.220) to 2.4.0-2829 (rev. org.gvsig.desktop-2.0.195)
- Status changed from New to Fixed

No tengo muy claro que de todo lo que he tocado lo ha arreglado.

He hecho muchas pruebas y reescrito código muchas veces.

El cambio más significativo ha sido:

- Activar la cache compartida al abrir la conexión con SpatiaLite.
Había documentación diciendo que debería hacerse, pero no lo había hecho porque no había visto cómo hacerlo.
- Sustituir el obtener la conexión directamente por usar el pool de conexiones de apache commons.

Sospecho que la conjunción de estas dos cosas es lo que ha causado que acabe funcionando.

#2 - 08/08/2017 10:33 AM - Álvaro Anguix

- Status changed from Fixed to Closed
